

AOLs Solidify Role in Title Alternative Evolution

White House Initiative Signals Recognition That Alternatives to Title Insurance Are Needed to Lower Closing Costs and Boost Home Affordability

FHFA Title Pilot

On March 7, the White House announced steps to reduce home purchase and mortgage refinancing closing costs. Among these measures is the FHFA Title Acceptance Pilot program, a major step towards embracing alternatives like our enhanced attorney opinion letter (AOLPro) over traditional title insurance.

Lenders like you are uniquely positioned to transform the mortgage landscape.

The Administration is addressing title insurance costs directly and empowering the agencies to take action to reduce those costs through the use of title alternatives like AOLPro and waivers.

AOLPro is a proven and accepted alternative that can save your borrowers thousands of dollars at the closing table. This is meaningful to borrowers and can make the difference in getting the deal done.

By offering AOLPro and promoting the use of a fully insured alternative to title insurance, you place your services at the forefront of industry innovation and separate your business from the rest by standing with your customers when they need it most.

Gain a competitive edge by significantly reducing closing costs for your borrowers in purchase and refinance transactions.

Attorney Opinion Letters are accepted by

Learn More About Title Alternatives

Read White House Fact Sheet

Read FHFA Statement on Title Pilot

Read Fannie Mae Announcement to Expand AOL Usage

Contact Rob Baumann to learn more.